WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Fear that the administration is preparing a plan to keep prices and wages in constant balance through permanent control of commodities brought scores of farm leaders to Washington today for hearings before the senate agriculture committee.

Heading the list of producers from all parts of the country were livestock men led by Judge Joe G. Montague of Fort Worth, Tex., general counsel for a number of big livestock associations.

Commissioners of agriculture from all the states, as well as representatives of many other farm groups, also have been invited by Sen. Ellison D. "Cotton Ed" Smith (D) S. C., committee chairman.

Before the hearings begin Monday, an attempt will be made to establish a concerted program for attack on subsidies, crop quotas and present forms of price control.

The farm groups also plan to oppose formulation of any policies which would tend to shove the nation's agriculture into the economic background for the benefit of industry.

Interesting Testimony

"You are going to hear some interesting testimony on this whole matter," Montague said. "It would be a nice thing if we could always have wages and prices in constant balance. Theoretically it can be done by control of commodity surpluses.

"However, that is only Utopian theory. Socialism is a pretty theory, too."

The administration's general plan, according to the farm group, is to control surpluses through purchase, storage, loans, and quotas, and to guide the flow of commodities into the market.

Count Goes Free

ALFRED De Marigny Thursday night at Nassau was acquitted of the murder of his wealthy father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, by a jury which deliberated one hour and 50 minutes. The jury recommended that De Marigny be deported from the Bahamas.

JURY ACQUITS FRENCH COUNT

De Marigny Declared Not Guilty Of Murdering Father-In-Law

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 12—Count Alfred De Marigny was a free man today, cleared of charges that he murdered his wealthy father-in-law, but above him hovered the threat of being deported from the Bahamas islands.

The same 12-man jury which acquitted him of the slaying of Sir Harry Oakes by a vote of 9 to 3 brought the deportation threat when it recommended such "immediate" action to Chief Justice Sir Oscar Daly in Bahamas supreme court.

After deliberating only an hour and 53 minutes, the jury filed back into the tiny jam-packed courtroom to free the dapper French nobleman who had sat interestedly, but unruffled throughout the 22 court days of the trial. Foreman John Sands, when asked the verdict, announced:

"Not guilty."

Verdict Cheered

Then, as a great shout went up from the crowd and a broad grin broke across De Marigny's face, Sands added:

"The jury recommends that De Marigny be deported immediately."

Judge Daly was obviously taken aback by this surprise recommendation and, turning to the jurors, remarked:

"That's something I cannot contend with, but no doubt the proper authorities will take cognizance of your recommendations."

Under Bahamian law, which differs from that of Britain, immigration authorities in the islands have the right to deport anyone without explaining their reasons for doing so. While it was not immediately clear where De Marigny might be sent, should the jury's recommendation be followed, it was thought possible he might be deported to the Indian ocean isle.

Promise To Take Matters In Own Hands Unless Army Remains

Prober Charges Japs Ran Brothels, Gained Opium From Outside Camp

TULE LAKE, Nov. 12—Residents of the rich farm and ranch area surrounding the Tule Lake Japanese segregation camp waited today for assurance from Washington that the strife torn camp will remain under permanent army control.

Community leaders have warned grimly that if military authorities and congress fail to heed their demands that the camp be taken entirely out of the hands of the War Relocation Authority they will use other methods to protect their families.

In testimony before the State Senate Fact-Finding committee, Clark W. Fensler, Tule Lake Civilian Defense director, pointed out that the community had been in a state of "jitters" since trouble first broke out at the camp two weeks ago.

"We were sitting on a powder keg," Fensler said. "We won't want a repetition of last week's riots."

Veterans' Community

"This is an ex-service man's community," he added, "and every man here has a high-powered rifle and knows how to use it."

Farmers and ranchers declared that the situation in the area had grown steadily more tense since inauguration of the program to bring the openly avowed 16,000 disloyal Japs among the evacuees to the Tule Lake camp.

They have openly protested against the segregation program being centered near their homes and declared that WRA policies created a hostile feeling against the agency in the community.

Howard L. Dayton, commander of the Tule Lake American Legion post, has already sent a formal petition to congress to have the camp taken over by the army permanently. Leaders of other Legion posts at Klamath Falls, Ore., and

HUNTERS GAIN NEW HOPE OVER W P B DIRECTIVE

Hunters and sportsmen who have not yet obtained their supply of shells and ammunition for the fast-approaching hunting season took new hope Friday. The War Production Board announced that munitions plants which are producing some shells and rifle cartridges for civilian consumption have been given additional time to complete their work.

Originally the WPB specified that ammunition users other than ranchers and farmers could buy shells and cartridges only between October 1 and November 15. The order issued Friday extends the period to December 31.

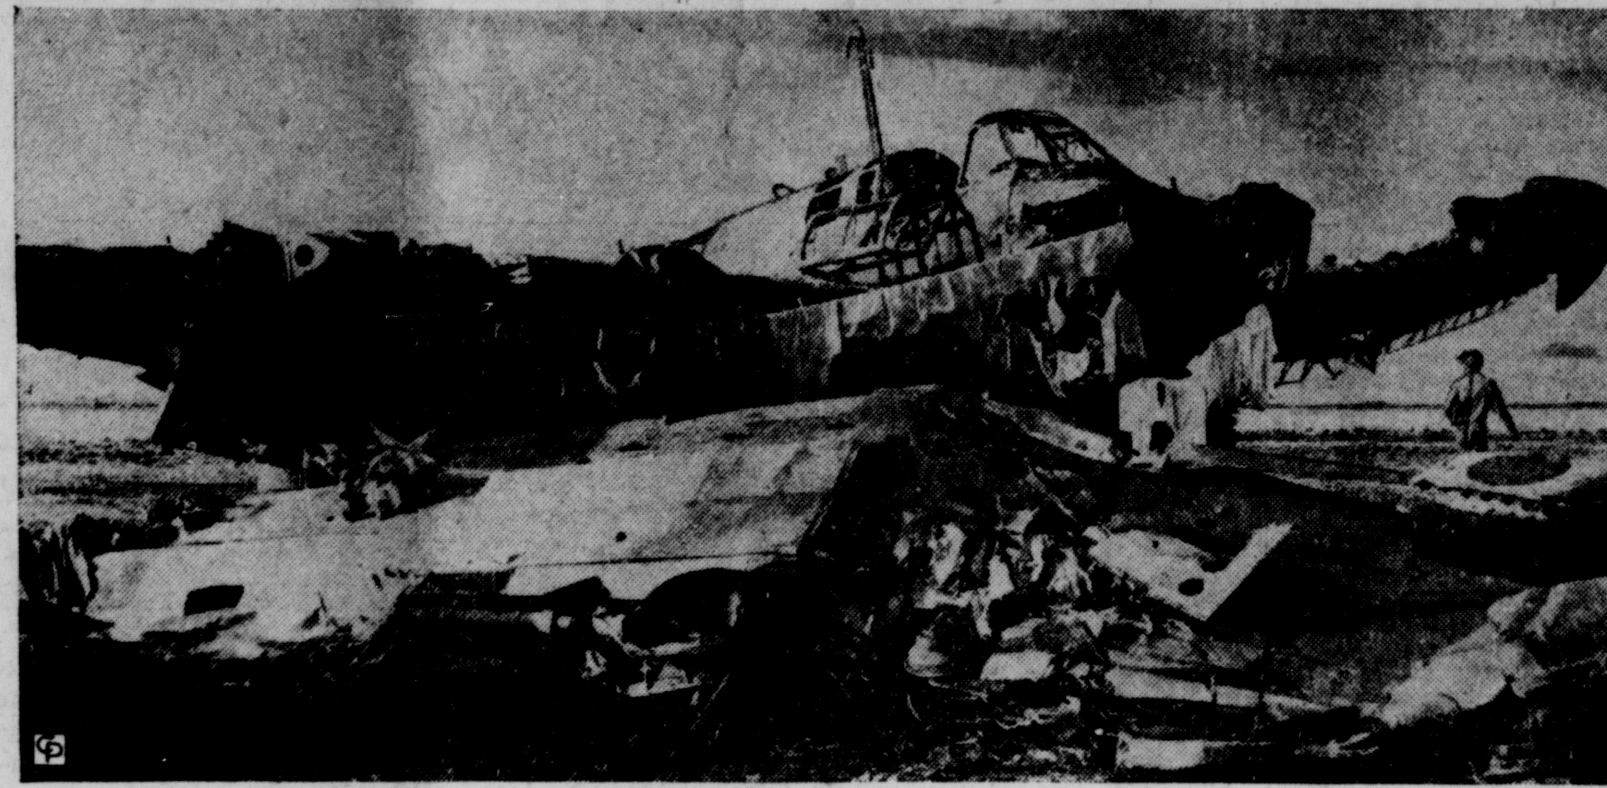

Production of such ammunition has been slower than anticipated and farmers and ranchers, making their purchases under a priority established for them, have taken most of the supply of ammunition available.

The extension was provided to permit manufacturers to complete their production quotas, the WPB declaring that much more ammunition can be provided in a short time, and adding that much of it may find its way into civilian channels.

Hunting season opens next Friday with rabbits, pheasants and Hungarian partridge to be taken. The trapping season for skunk, mink, muskrat and other animals gets under way Monday.

So far, few local hunters have been able to obtain shells and cartridges permitting them to participate in the hunting season.

FORD PLANS BIG AIR TRANSPORTS

Multiple Engine Cargo And Passenger Planes To Be Post-War Product

DETROIT, Nov. 12—Henry Ford, planning revolutionary things for the future in characteristic manner, announced today he will build "huge, multiple-engine, cargo passenger planes of unique design" at his giant Willow Run bomber plant after the war.

The 80-year-old president of the Ford Motor Company, who resumed control of the world's greatest industrial empire at the death of his son, Edsel, foresaw the possibility of mass production of the planes revolutionizing long-distance transportation just as his model-T had revolutionized short transportation.

"We have been planning for a long time to build a cargo plane at Willow Run," Ford said in a statement, "and our ideas are becoming more settled all the time."

He disclosed that experimentation, still on a small scale because of present war production, nevertheless has been going forward with small models and engines.

Thinking again of the small man, Ford declared he is planning to produce a plane "which can be operated at a fraction of the cost now necessary for flying big planes."

"There will be some new ideas in our design," he revealed. "I can't say much about it yet because it isn't complete, but we are trying to design a plane which will not need such tremendously long runways for take-off and landing... and a plane which will be as positively safe as it is possible to make it."

The Ford company has been granted the first option by the government on the Willow Run plant after the war, the automobile pioneer said. "We plan to take up the option. Our first reason for this is to create jobs for the people who will need them."

Post-war expansion of the Ford Motor Company was also seen by the auto magnate, who announced

LOST PACKAGE HAMPERS FIVE WAR CONTRACTS

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 12—Carelessness of a 65-year-old messenger today was held responsible for impending work stoppage on five vital war jobs for at least 90 days.

Carrying a small package containing 18,000 pieces of fine tungsten wire, the messenger set down the parcel while waiting for a bus only to find it missing when the vehicle arrived.

The wire filaments form a critical part of production on five separate army contracts and it will take at least three months for replacement of the raw material shipment.

Marine Paratroopers In Diversionary Blow At Choiseul Outfox Japs

ADMIRAL HALSEY'S ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 5—(Delayed)—An amusing and thrilling tale of how several hundred Marine paratroopers outfoxed the Japs on Choiseul making them believe 20,000 Americans were invading the island was revealed today by Lieut. Col. Victor Krulak.

Krulak is only five feet five inches and weighs 130 pounds. The minimum paratrooper weight is 135 but the colonel explains away the five pound discrepancy, saying: "they accepted my work."

With a patch on his jaw and his left arm in a sling where explosive bullet fragments hit, Krulak dryly recounted details of how the Japs were tricked into believing a huge American force was landing on Choiseul, preliminary to invading the Shortland Islands.

The Choiseul landing was a diversionary move which covered the landing of thousands of Marines on Bougainville.

Land At Night
"We landed on Choiseul on the night of October 27-28 and left on the night of November 3-4," Krulak related.

(In his communique today from the southwest Pacific, General MacArthur announced that the paratrooper division which raided Choiseul as a diversionary cover for the Bougainville landing had accomplished its mission and had been withdrawn. The general's communique, however, did not say when the paratroopers had been withdrawn.)

PENNSY MINERS STILL ENJOYING HOLIDAY REST

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12—Operators of mines in western Pennsylvania today were skeptical as to whether the diggers would return to work in any substantial numbers the rest of the week after their celebration of Armistice Day.

The miners who laid off work yesterday, because of the government's refusal to grant overtime pay, forfeited premium pay for Saturday—or the sixth consecutive weekly work day—under contract provisions.

Bituminous mine outputs today were lagging far under established minimum requirements although workers at the big metal mills and arms processing outlets were ahead of their staggering production schedules. The steel and other basic industry unions in the area neither asked in their contract nor received premium pay for Armistice Day work.

About 75 percent of the district's miners were reported to have participated in the work cessation. And although many of the mines did not close down, production dropped to an estimated 30 percent of normal.

PUBLIC WARNED TO SAVE COAL

Cooperation To Determine Whether Heating Needs Will Be Met

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Government fuel officials said today that consumer conservation of oil and coal would determine whether essential heating needs were met this winter.

At the onset of a winter which gives promise of being neither unusually mild nor exceptionally severe the outlook for gas heating is good. Gas companies are of the opinion that this year there will be no restrictions on the volume of gas used for heating purposes.

Petroleum administration spokesmen declared that the conversion of many oil burners during the past year has eased the oil shortage slightly with this winter's oil supply gauged at about 75 percent of normal, or about the same as last year, in the eastern seaboard area.

This situation is expected to prevail in the rest of the country with the exception of the mid-West, including Chicago, where the going may be a little tougher this winter. Officials said that any nearly-

STEAM AIRPLANE ENGINE GIVES 650 MILE SPEED

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—An airplane engine which, if the claims of its inventor are confirmed, will drive a plane through the air at fantastic speed was described today by Louis Trosky of Chicago.

He told of his invention at a joint meeting of the Society of American Military Engineers and the Chicago Engineers Club.

The engine has steam as its motive power instead of gasoline, burns unprocessed fuel oil and requires less space than internal combustion gasoline engines, Trosky said.

Able to hurtle a plane through the air at 650 miles an hour at the highest flying altitudes, it literally will fly double circles around any enemy aircraft now in the skies, the inventor declared.

That the thing is practicable, Trosky said he was sure, for he already has flown 800 hours in experimental steam-driven planes.

He has tried the engine in an automobile, Trosky said, but the trouble with that was that it "picked up" too fast—100 miles an hour in the first city block.

YOUNG WINANT PRISONER

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12—First Lieut. John G. Winant, Jr., son of the U. S. ambassador to England, is a prisoner in Germany, his 17-year-old brother, Revington, said in Princeton today. Revington declared his family in Concord, N. H., told him that official word had been received from the War department that his brother, formerly feared killed, now is a prisoner of war.

ALLIES AIM AT HALTING FLOW TO NAZI ARMIES

Big RAF Bombers Blast Last Right Of Way Into Italy

FIFTH, EIGHTH ADVANCE

MacArthur Wins First Round At Bougainville—Russ Drive Continues

By International News Service
Heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force today left devastation heaped upon the French Riviera coastal railway as their latest contribution to the increasing Allied campaign to knock out Nazi communications linking Italy with France and Germany.

The four-motored craft struck heavily at the railway yards at Cannes to knock out the second of two lines connecting France with Italy. The battering of the first rail line occurred less than 24 hours before when the only other route through the Mount Cenis tunnel was interrupted.

Just a few hours before the Cannes raid, American Liberator bombers poured over the Alps to pummel the railroad at Antheor, near Cannes, as well as the Ancey railroads. An important ball-bearing plant also was blasted by the Yank airmen in the latter city.

These raids—coupled with RAF assaults on targets in the Berlin, Hanover and Ruhr areas of Germany—added to damage inflicted by a British Wellington bomber attack against other rail yards at Prato, near Florence.

Allied Flyers Active

In the southwest Pacific, other United Nations fliers were active, supporting American ground troops on Bougainville, and battering the Surabaya naval base in the Netherlands East Indies.

The airmen under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command helped the United States Marines and army troops consolidate their beachhead in the Empress Augusta bay area. The general's headquarters issued a communique, announcing:

"Our ground troops have completed consolidation of the area which is now firmly secured."

The beachhead had been extended to 11 miles by the Marines who surged ashore scarcely 11 days ago under cover of naval and air bombardment. They were joined Tuesday by the doughboys, who countered Jap reinforcements brought in under cover of darkness.

Japs Stymied

Japanese attempts to crush the American bridgehead were stymied by tank, artillery and air action.

Enemy efforts to disrupt American shipping off the coast of the last Jap stronghold in the Solomon islands failed when seven of 40 attacking divebombers were knocked out. A spokesman for

WILLKIE FIRES CRITICISM AT FAVORITE SONS

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12—Wendell L. Willkie today placed before the Republican party what he termed "its greatest opportunity and political challenge since 1860" in the coming presidential elections.

The 1940 G. O. P. presidential nominee, however, warned the Republicans will not have the slightest chance in 1944 if the party jams its convention with the nomination of favorite sons.

At a news conference in Madison, Willkie, a probable candidate for the G. O. P. nomination in 1944, cautioned against following the performance of the 1920 Republican convention when Warren G. Harding was nominated in what he termed the playing of "political checkers."

At the news conference, Willkie repeatedly declared "I am a man of certain basic beliefs" and he admitted his tour of Wisconsin was to sound out support for those beliefs.

He criticized the present domestic policies of the Roosevelt administration.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12—First Lieut. John G. Winant, Jr., son of the U. S. ambassador to England, is a prisoner in Germany, his 17-year-old brother, Revington, said in Princeton today. Revington declared his family in Concord, N. H., told him that official word had been received from the War department that his brother, formerly feared killed, now is a prisoner of war.

ALLIES AIM AT HALTING FLOW TO NAZI ARMIES

Big RAF Bombers Blast Last Right Of Way Into Italy

FIFTH, EIGHTH ADVANCE

MacArthur Wins First Round At Bougainville—Russ Drive Continues

By International News Service
Heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force today left devastation heaped upon the French Riviera coastal railway as their latest contribution to the increasing Allied campaign to knock out Nazi communications linking Italy with France and Germany.

The four-motored craft struck heavily at the railway yards at Cannes to knock out the second of two lines connecting France with Italy. The battering of the first rail line occurred less than 24 hours before when the only other route through the Mount Cenis tunnel was interrupted.

Just a few hours before the Cannes raid, American Liberator bombers poured over the Alps to pummel the railroad at Antheor, near Cannes, as well as the Ancey rail yards. An important ball-bearing plant also was blasted by the Yank airmen in the latter city.

These raids—coupled with RAF assaults on targets in the Berlin, Hanover and Ruhr areas of Germany—added to damage inflicted by a British Wellington bomber attack against other rail yards at Prato, near Florence.

Allied Flyers Active

In the southwest Pacific, other United Nations fliers were active, supporting American ground troops on Bougainville, and battering the Surabaya naval base in the Netherlands East Indies.

The airmen under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command helped the United States Marines and army troops consolidate their beachhead in the Empress Augusta bay area. The general's headquarters issued a communique, announcing:

"Our ground troops have completed consolidation of the area which is now firmly secured."

The beachhead had been extended to 11 miles by the Marines who surged ashore scarcely 11 days ago under cover of naval and air bombardment. They were joined Tuesday by the doughboys, who countered Jap reinforcements brought in under cover of darkness.

Japs Stymied

Japanese attempts to crush the American bridgehead were stymied by tank, artillery and air action.

Enemy efforts to disrupt American shipping off the coast of the last Jap stronghold in the Solomon islands failed when seven of 40 attacking divebombers were knocked out. A spokesman for (Continued on Page Three)

WILLKIE FIRES CRITICISM AT FAVORITE SONS

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12—Wendell L. Willkie today placed before the Republican party what he termed "its greatest opportunity and political challenge since 1860" in the coming presidential elections.

The 1940 G. O. P. presidential nominee, however, warned the Republicans will not have the slightest chance in 1944 if the party jams its convention with the nomination of favorite sons.

At a news conference in Madison, Willkie, a probable candidate for the G. O. P. nomination in 1944, cautioned against following the performance of the 1920 Republican convention when Warren G. Harding was nominated in what he termed the playing of "political checkers."

At the news conference, Willkie repeatedly declared "I am a man of certain basic beliefs" and he admitted his tour of Wisconsin was to sound out support for those beliefs.

He criticized the present domestic policies of the Roosevelt administration.

FD Surprised That Hull Agreed To London For Big Four Conferences

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Though the President was highly pleased at the results of the Moscow meeting, there was one point which surprised him. In fact he expressed surprise and slight displeasure at a recent cabinet meeting.

This was the fact that Secretary Hull agreed to hold the meetings of the Big 4 in London rather than in Washington.

This council will become the most important international body in the world. It will mould vital decisions affecting the Allies and future peace. Therefore, it had been originally understood, before Mr. Hull left for Moscow, that this council would function in Washington, not London.

In London, it was figured, the Council would be too much under the thumb of old world diplomacy, would be dominated by the British and Russians. FDR has always remembered the way in which his old chief, Woodrow Wilson, had trouble when he went to Europe. So he wanted these initial maneuvers kept in a fresher New World atmosphere.

LITTLE NATIONS OUT

Nothing was said about it at the White House, but another original U. S. proposal, planned for the Moscow meeting, was altered by Secretary Hull after he got over there.

This was the plan to have smaller nations sit in with the Big 4 on the newly created Diplomatic Council. Behind this were two ideas: (1) It is only fair to permit cooperation by smaller nations; (2) Smaller nations, especially Latin Americans, are usually to be found on the more idealistic side and backing up the U. S. A. In order to mould public opinion and permanent peace machinery we may need a lot of small nation support.

Inside fact is that U. S. plans for Moscow were taken up in detail by Churchill and Roosevelt at the Quebec Conference and okayed. Several months previously, Sumner Welles, then Undersecretary of State, had drafted the plan later adopted at Moscow for an organization for world peace. He had also drafted the pledge adopted at Moscow that no nation shall use its army in the territories of other nations without joint consultation.

When Welles showed these to Secretary Hull several weeks before Quebec, Hull didn't like them. But at Quebec both Churchill and Roosevelt gave them their blessings and they have now been officially adopted by the Moscow Conference.

HULL SAYS NO

A revealing insight as to how far Mr. Hull and the State department have moved toward world cooperation in recent weeks is in the files of Senator Wiley of Wisconsin who one year ago wrote Hull urging that steps be taken now to prevent a deadlock between the Senate and the Executive over permanent peace. Wiley asked Hull for his views on world cooperation.

Hull replied, October 21, 1942, that the Founding Fathers had arranged a balance among the three branches of Government and the Executive was charged with the sole conduct of foreign affairs. "It seems better to follow that practice," Hull concluded. He declined to give Wiley his views on future world cooperation.

Senator Wiley persisted, wrote another letter pointing out the disaster to the world after the last war when the State department presented a finished treaty to the Senate which the Senate would not ratify. He urged that the Senate get Hull's views and cooperation in advance.

But the Secretary of State, according to Wiley, refused to budge an inch. One year later, in September, 1943, Hull was still pretty much of the same opinion and discouraged members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee from passing the "world cooperation" resolution.

Almost overnight, however, Mr. Hull changed his mind. The Moscow agreements are now approved, and the Senate has passed a resolution going a long way toward post-war world cooperation.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The question of whether or not he should have a naval aide is bothering platinum-haired Ed

Stettinius, newly appointed Undersecretary of State. New York Times' Arthur Krock thinks it is all right for him to have one. That should settle it. . . . If Stettinius wants further precedent, Henry L. Stimson had a military aide, dashing Col. Eugene Regnier, when Stimson was Secretary of State. . . . At that time Fiorello LaGuardia, then a Congressman, inserted a clause in the Army appropriation bill barring a military aide for Stimson. It nearly caused the old gentleman to have a fit. . . . Today, Stimson as Secretary of War is greeted every morning outside the Pentagon building by a sergeant attired in dress blue uniform who leaps to the car and carefully carries Stimson's brief case (weight 2 lbs.). Three sergeants rotate this duty, one from the infantry, one from the cavalry, one from the artillery. The Air corps is not represented. . . . It makes a pretty picture, but doesn't help manpower. . . . N. Y. Lawyer Morris Ernst, White House adviser on many things, has left on another confidential trip to England. . . . The Navy is buying two million acres in California and Oregon for an aerial gunnery range. It will be the largest land purchase in naval history.

GRAVY-GRABBING

Not often do members of Congress—one of the most exclusive clubs in the U. S. A.—lambaste a fellow member. But hefty, GOP Representative Frank Keefe of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, let loose the other day with an attack on Democratic Representative Sol Bloom of New York, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, for making private use of a government automobile and chauffeur.

In blistering tones, Keefe charged that Bloom had purchased the car—a 1936 Ford—with funds of the United States Constitution Bicentennial Commission, of which Bloom was "director general." Though the General Accounting Office refused to approve the purchase, and though the commission has expired, Keefe declared that the New York congressman was still being chauffeured around in the car by an employee of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Bloom was forced to admit that this was the case, though he replied that he had used up a personally-owned Lincoln on behalf of the Government.

In his comeback, however, the New York Congressman overlooked a good bet. It so happens that his Wisconsin colleague is skating on thin ice when he accuses others of being careless with public funds. He, himself, has an interesting record in the gravy-grabbing department.

Congressman Keefe has a daughter on his office payroll, Mrs. Virginia Nolan, who is paid $2,800 a year for NOT working in the office. Mrs. Nolan shows up only occasionally to relieve two regular employees on Keefe's staff, one of whom is paid $2,000 a year and the other, $1,700.

DR. KINN SHAW TALKS ABOUT WORLD FUTURE

Dr. Kinn Wei Shaw, a prominent Chinese and first of four speakers to visit Circleville in the Rotary club's Institute of International Understanding, addressed two Circleville audiences Thursday. Dr. Shaw spoke at the Rotary club meeting at noon and in the evening addressed a large audience in the high school social room.

Speaking on the subject of "Contributors to a New World Order," Dr. Shaw stressed the need for world cooperation in order to bring about the kind of peace the world needs.

The speaker proved interesting to both audiences. Dr. Shaw was a charter member of the Hangkow, China, Rotary club, he was a delegate to the Hot Springs international food conference, and has been engaged in the export and banking business in China for many years.

Dr. Shaw discussed China's government, the country's disregard for time, its relations with the Japanese, and he also outlined the nation's business program. The speaker said China exports 70 percent of its tea to Russia in exchange for war material.

Big RAF Bombers Blast Last Right Of Way Into Italy

Gen. MacArthur said Jap claims of success were "extravagant." Results of the Surabaya raid could not be observed, but the Allied flyers accomplished much in traversing 2,000 miles to drop 22 tons of bombs on their target.

In Italy, the Fifth Army of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark repulsed fresh new German counterattacks on the western sector of the battlefield. The Anglo-American forces captured numerous enemy prisoners.

Despite bad weather and demolitions, the Allied Fifth and Eighth armies continued advancing on all fronts. The Algiers radio reported that the veteran Eighth was in control of most of the Adriatic coast road through the Appennine mountains; this was not immediately confirmed, but it was believed possible as the British force was advancing much more rapidly than the troops of Gen. Clark who were encountering most of the enemy counterdrives.

Around Calabritto, the enemy counterattacked British forces. Slightly to the northeast the Yank components took a dominating height in the Mount Camino ridges, while other units gained a mile in one sector after crushing enemy thrusts.

Russ Move Ahead
Elsewhere in Europe the United Nations pressed the Germans hard. In Russia, steadily-advancing Red Army units drove to within 16 miles of the vital Zhitomir-Korosten railway, last German-held north-south railroad east of the Polish border. The Russian drive westward from liberated Kiev threatened both these important rail junctions.

In the Reich area, mentioned for the first time in weeks in a Soviet communiqué, Soviet advances resulted in the deaths of some 2,000 Nazis who were forced into retreat.

Yugoslavian partisans, meantime, pressed successful drives against the Germans in five sections.

TAX UNITS ASK MORE CASH FOR 1944 OPERATION

Demands of Circleville corporation, township trustees and board of education for larger amounts of money to operate through 1944, made Friday when hearings on 1944 budgets were started before the Pickaway county Budget Commission, resulted in adjournment of the budget hearing until next Monday at 2 p. m.

All three of the taxing subdivisions refused to accept proportions of tax money identical with those provided for operation in 1943, demanding that large surpluses they said the county commissioners retain in their treasury be divided among all the subdivisions of the county.

Annual budget hearings started Friday, Circleville township and its subdivisions being first on the schedule for establishment of rates of taxation for the next year.

After the Budget Commission, comprised of Auditor Forrest Short, Treasurer Robert G. Colville and Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt, proposed that the rates effective in 1943 be carried over to 1944, the city and school board announced their refusal to accept the figures.

Demands were voiced by members of the delegation that the county commissioners give up some of the big surplus they have been carrying so that subdivisions which have been having difficulty getting along may operate more satisfactorily.

In order to have the budget matter ironed out completely, the budget session was continued until next Monday when the commissioners will be in session.

Members of the Circleville township delegation declared that unless a distribution more satisfactory to them is agreed on the matter will be placed before the State Tax Commission.

land of Mauritius where he was born. Wartime restrictions, however, could well preclude such action.

Greeted By Wife

As pandemonium broke loose in the traditionally staid courtroom, De Marigny jumped from the prisoner's dock into the arms of his attractive 19-year-old wife, Nancy. She had been sitting only 12 feet away and, her face wreathed with happy smiles, met the handsome French nobleman midway. They embraced joyfully, before turning literally to fight their way through crowds of well-wishers to their waiting car.

Once back in their Victoria avenue home, where the count gave a dinner party the night Sir Harry was bludgeoned and burned to death, the dwelling enjoyed a festive air.

A holiday spirit prevailed throughout the resort city of Nassau. In the downtown section, hotels were jammed with people and champagne corks popped everywhere. Crowds surged about the De Marigny residence and six constables were detailed to keep the curious in check.

So great was the reception given the verdict that the drive from the courtroom to the count's bungalow, ordinarily a matter of moments, took some 50 minutes. This was partly due to the crowds blocking the streets.

The verdict was not unexpected, though the deportation recommendation was. Under Bahamas law, only a two-thirds vote of the jury is required to free a murder defendant, although a verdict for conviction must be unanimous.

WANDA GRABILL, C. H. S. GRADUATE IN 1942, DEAD

Miss Wanda Lee Grabill, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Grabill of Monroe township, died Thursday at 8 p. m. in St. Francis hospital. Peritonitis caused death.

Miss Grabill was a graduate of Circleville high school in the class of 1942 and had been employed prior to her fatal illness as a press operator at the National Fireworks Co., near Chillicothe.

Her parents are her only survivors. Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at the Williamsport Methodist church with burial in charge of C. E. Hill.

It is believed that malnutrition is the chief reason for the high death rate among children in India.

at Alturas and Yreka, Calif., plan similar action.

The fact that the Tule Lake area was set up primarily as an ex-service man's community makes the location of the segregation camp there a peculiar one. Situated on a drained lake bed, the area was thrown open for settlement by veterans shortly after World War One and virtually all homestead sections available were taken up by qualified service men.

Home of Deiter

To add to that Sergeant William Deiter, one of the famed American flyers who took part in the bombing raid on Tokyo and was among those captured by the Japanese, was the son of a farm couple who live close to Tule Lake.

It is believed that Deiter was one of the group beheaded by Nippon fanatics and this knowledge was not calculated to make the location of a Japanese segregation camp near the community welcome.

Charges that the 16,000 disloyal Japs at the segregation center operated their own brothels and obtained opium from outside sources were listed today by Rep. Clair Engle (D) Cal., as among those he will present to the Dies subcommittee investigation.

"I have included in my bill of particulars," Engle said, "a request for investigation into prostitution and narcotics at the camp."

According to details in the charges, the Japs set up a virtual "Yoshiwara" in the camp, similar on a small scale to Tokyo's infamous "red light" district where girls are sold into slavery by their families at an early age.

The charges will attempt to show that prostitutes were moved about from house to house, apparently with knowledge of War Relocation Authority officials, until they were finally settled in one district of the colony.

Narcotics In Camp

The Dies subcommittee will also be told that caches of narcotics were found in the camp from time to time and that there was evidence the segregation had virtually an inexhaustible source on the outside.

Engle's one man congressional probe, bridging the gap between the California state senate committee's investigation and the arrival of the Dies group went into high gear as he obtained full camp files and administrative records from Robert Cozzens, regional WRA director.

Meantime, the camp remained quiet as military authorities brought an end to a strike by Jap workers which tested anew the army's control. At least some Jap workers were back on the job under the watchful eyes of soldier guards who kept their tommy guns on the alert.

An authoritative source said the situation had "eased" and that work at the camp was "in progress."

A further sign that the pressure was off was seen in the fact that the alert, which had kept military guards on duty or available for immediate call since last Thursday night's riot, was suspended.

For the first time in a week, soldiers at the camp were given passes and allowed outside the double barbed wire enclosure.

FINCH CASE NEAR END

Final arguments were started today in the murder trial of Charles Finch, 46, charged with robbing and beating Joseph Schoenfeld, 69-year-old farmer, to death April 23, 1938. Finch, who was known as Ronald Eugene Carson in Circleville, where he was arrested five years after the crime, did not testify in his own behalf. The defense ended its case yesterday.

KENNETH KNECE SERVING FOURTH MAJOR SENTENCE

Kenneth Knece, 30, of Jackson township, who was taken to Ohio penitentiary Tuesday to start serving a 10 to 25 year term for armed robbery of Charles Aills, Harrison, O., is serving his fourth major prison sentence in 12 years, his first term starting when he was 18.

A. K. Chenoweth, record clerk at the London prison farm, said that Knece's entry at the penitentiary removes him from the escape count of the London prison farm.

Knece escaped the prison farm last July 20 and a month later was caught near New Concord with his brother, Harold, 17, who has been sent to the Boys' Industrial school for his role in the Aills robbery.

At the time of his escape from London, Knece was serving an armed robbery charge from Pickaway county having been admitted July 2, 1936 and sent to London in April, 1943. His record shows that he was sent to the federal reformatory in Chillicothe from East St. Louis, Ill., in May, 1931, on a car theft charge. He served two years. A short time after his release he was sent to Mansfield reformatory for auto theft. He escaped twice from Mansfield.

Two weeks ago he figured in a sensational escape from Pickaway county jail, but enjoyed only seven hours of freedom.

Chenoweth said Knece must serve six and one-half years on his new sentence before he is eligible for a hearing for parole consideration.

Another draft classification appeal was filed Friday with the Pickaway county selective service board, the ninth in two weeks. It involved the classification of Freddie Wilson Liff, of Columbus, former resident of Derby. The appeal was filed by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad by whom Liff is employed as a yard fireman.

Japs. We lost only nine killed and sixteen wounded.

"We moved into the mountains, then south. I was leading a patrol October 29th when we met ten Japs and killed seven on the beach, destroying their barge.

"The next day we attacked Sagagai where there were 225 Japs. We hit them at noon meal time.

"Half of our force struck from the beach, the rest from the mountain side. We killed 72 in a 45 minute fight.

Japs Repulsed

"They tried a banzai charge, but that's a poor way to obtain social security against machine guns which ribboned them.

"One of the Marine kids lost his entrip and he picked up a heavy machine gun, a la Vic McLagen, and fired a hundred rounds, burning his own hands.

"The Jap snipers were troublesome, but their aim wasn't good. Natives spotted them for us.

"We razed Sagagai, destroying all stores, ammunition and huts.

"The Japs reacted quickly and we prepared an ambush. We picked trees Jap snipers were most likely to use and drove safety razor blades in the trunks.

Japs Surprised

"Later it was funny watching the Japs scamper down from the trees and drop to the ground howling as they examined the cuts on their hands. The Marines picked off 17 of them.

"That's one trick the Japs hadn't thought about.

"On November first we slipped toward the coast, hitting Jap outposts south of Choiseul bay and our mortars set fire to field dumps on Guppy island.

"Now the Japs finally tumbled to the fact that we were not strong as they thought, and they pulled troops from the Shortlands landing below us.

"The next day they brought boats and fighter cover and the following night we evacuated, killing 43 Japs as we left."

Krulak said that the Japs on Choiseul were imperial marines who "sometimes fled in a most un-Samurai fashion."

Engineers and officials at the Ford plant admitted Ford had been querying them and obtaining data for months. It was also disclosed that Charles A. Lindbergh, on the Ford staff for sometime, has been consulting with him regarding plane and engine design requirements for post-war manufacture.

Lindbergh has been experimenting with high altitude engines. These experiments may influence the design of the new plane, it was said.

The layout of the bomber plant permits construction of planes much larger than the B-24 now being produced, Ford officials indicated.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Yes, I'm afraid there's no denyin' it, Judge... jeeps and trucks and other kinds of motorized equipment have taken the place of the good old horse in modern warfare."

"It's true of lots of things in this war, Eben. Every day we hear of new tactics and requirements and new uses of products. For instance, take the alcohol that is used for war purposes. In World War I, this vitally needed product was used mostly in making smokeless powder, chemical warfare materials and medical supplies. Today it must do far more... it must provide the base for such indispensable products as synthetic rubber, shatterproof glass, lacquers, plastics and many other of our requirements so essential to victory.

"As a result hundreds of millions of gallons are required every year... half of which is being produced by the beverage distilling industry. Bet you didn't know that, Eben."

"As a matter of fact, I didn't, Judge. That's a mighty important war contribution that had escaped me completely."

maintained through a program of subsidies and support prices. The whole would go hand in hand with policies of the national labor relations board and its authority over wages.

"What agriculture wants is the right to include labor and all other costs of production in the established parity prices of basic commodities," Montague said. "The farmers are much opposed to any extensive subsidy program."

Pressure for subsidies has been growing parallel with demands of labor for complete abrogation of the little steel formula for wage control.

"While the formula has never actually meant much, its complete abandonment would eliminate any need for subsidies," said Sen. George A. Aiken (R) Vt., of the agriculture committee. "With wages rising, people could pay proper commodity prices. But if a subsidy program is attempted, the consumer will find that while prices may be checked somewhat, taxes will go up."

COUNTY LEADS IN ARMY DEPOT LABOR DRIVE

U. S. Employment Service officials assigned to Pickaway county said Friday that the employment drive conducted last week end for the U. S. army service forces depot in Columbus was a greater success than any of the campaigns staged in other central Ohio cities at the same time and for the same purpose.

Forty-five Circleville and Pickaway county men have accepted jobs at the depot and all are working now. The nearest approach to this total was scored at Delaware when about 30 were hired.

The depot is badly in need of laborers for inside and outside work, and any persons interested in going to the depot should apply at the U.S.E.S. office in the courthouse.

Employment Service men said the army depot was pleased with the success of the drive.

PUBLIC WARNED TO SAVE COAL

satisfactory solution of the oil burner supply problem would depend upon cooperation from the public in using fuel sparingly and minimizing heating requirements by closing off as many rooms as possible. Solid fuels officials declared that the coal supply was acute even before the recent strike.

To avoid coal shortages officials advocated the following three measures:

1. Establish stricter distribution of orders so that the available supply can be extended as far as possible.

2. Increase production.

3. Public consumption must be limited to essential needs.

The recent release of 40,000,000 tons of coal for public consumption is said to be part of a move to shift the impact of the coal shortage from the individual to the dwindling stockpile. There is danger therefore that a future emergency may be induced by maintenance of an inadequate reserve.

The country's chances of keeping warm this winter depend largely, coal and oil officials agreed, on the extent to which consumers will police their own individual drain upon the limited fuel supply.

Japs. We lost only nine killed and sixteen wounded.

"We moved into the mountains, then south. I was leading a patrol October 29th when we met ten Japs and killed seven on the beach, destroying their barge."

"The next day we attacked Sagagai where there were 225 Japs. We hit them at noon meal time."

"Half of our force struck from the beach, the rest from the mountain side. We killed 72 in a 45 minute fight."

Japs Repulsed

"They tried a banzai charge, but that's a poor way to obtain social security against machine guns which ribbioned them."

"One of the Marine kids lost his tripod and he picked up a heavy machine gun, a la Vic McLagen, and fired a hundred rounds, burning his own hands."

"The Jap snipers were troublesome, but their aim wasn't good. Natives spotted them for us."

"We razed Sagagai, destroying all stores, ammunition and huts."

"The Japs reacted quickly and we prepared an ambush. We picked trees Jap snipers were most likely to use and drove safety razor blades in the trunks."

Japs Surprised

"Later it was funny watching the Japs scamper down from the trees and drop to the ground howling as they examined the cuts on their hands. The Marines picked off 17 of them."

"That's one trick the Japs hadn't thought about."

"On November first we slipped toward the coast, hitting Jap outposts south of Choiseul bay and our mortars set fire to field dumps on Guppy Island."

"Now the Japs finally tumbled to the fact that we were not strong as they thought, and they pulled troops from the Shortlands landing below us."

"The next day they brought boats and fighter cover and the following night we evacuated, killing 43 Japs as we left."

Krulak said that the Japs on Choiseul were imperial marines who "sometimes fled in a most unsamurai fashion."

For his gallantry in action and brilliant leadership, Krulak, an

Engineers and officials at the Ford plant admitted Ford had been querying them and obtaining data for months. It was also disclosed that Charles A. Lindbergh, on the Ford staff for sometime, has been consulting with him regarding plane and engine design requirements for post-war manufacture.

Lindbergh has been experimenting with high altitude engines. These experiments may influence the design of the new plane, it was said.

The layout of the bomber plant permits construction of planes much larger than the B-24 now being produced, Ford officials indicated.

DAVE RUBINOFF LOSES FAMOUS STRAD VIOLIN

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12.—One hundred thousand dollars is a lot of money, but it cannot replace Dave Rubinoff's Stradivarius violin, he wearily asserted today. The famous instrument was a casualty, a victim of Dave's generosity toward people who love to hear him play.

The artist, who is playing an engagement at a local theatre, was invited to play before a group of Army officers from Lockbourne Air Base and their wives.

As the famed violinist, instrument case in hand, was being escorted to a place by the piano by Col. John Gullett, commander of the air base, the case suddenly opened and the violin dropped out.

The instrument clattered to the floor and was shattered before the horrified eyes of the spectators.

The violin, made in Cremona in 1731 by Stradivarius, was insured for $100,000 but Rubinoff feared his "first love," could not be restored to emit its original tone.

After the tragedy, Rubinoff went on with the concert using a "spare" instrument.

maintained through a program of subsidies and support prices. The whole would go hand in hand with policies of the national labor relations board and its authority over wages.

"What agriculture wants is the right to include labor and all other costs of production in the established parity prices of basic commodities," Montague said. "The farmers are much opposed to any extensive subsidy program."

Pressure for subsidies has been growing parallel with demands of labor for complete abrogation of the little steel formula for wage control.

"While the formula has never actually meant much, its complete abandonment would eliminate any need for subsidies," said Sen. George A. Aiken (R) Vt., of the agriculture committee. "With wages rising, people could pay proper commodity prices. But if a subsidy program is attempted, the consumer will find that while prices may be checked somewhat, taxes will go up."

SOUVENIRS OF JAP FIGHT SENT HOME BY SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, 130 York street, received a gift box Friday from their son, Private First Class Lloyd Smith, who took part in the successful battle for Munda air base.

In the box were 22 old English coins, 56 photos of the New Guinea area and its inhabitants, two Japanese books, some Japanese photos, a Japanese wallet containing some of the "sinking suns" money, and two shoulder straps taken from a Japanese uniform.

Young Smith said the articles he had sent home had been found on Munda.

TRUCKS IN COLLISION

Minor damage was done Thursday in a collision on the CCC highway near Harrisburg when two trucks crashed. The vehicles involved were a Grove City Lumber Co. truck driven south on the CCC road by Robert Cox, 34, Orient, RFD, and a dump truck driven by Robert J. Johnson, Leesburg, Route 1. Cox told Deputy Vern Pontious the accident happened when Cox was making a left turn, Johnson starting to pass him at the time.

COUNTY LEADS IN ARMY DEPOT LABOR DRIVE

U. S. Employment Service officials assigned to Pickaway county said Friday that the employment drive conducted last week end for the U. S. army service forces depot in Columbus was a greater success than any of the campaigns staged in other central Ohio cities at the same time and for the same purpose.

Forty-five Circleville and Pickaway county men have accepted jobs at the depot and all are working now. The nearest approach to this total was scored at Delaware when about 30 were hired.

The depot is badly in need of laborers for inside and outside work, and any persons interested in going to the depot should apply at the U.S.E.S. office in the courthouse.

Employment Service men said the army depot was pleased with the success of the drive.

PUBLIC WARNED TO SAVE COAL

satisfactory solution of the oil burner supply problem would depend upon cooperation from the public in using fuel sparingly and minimizing heating requirements by closing off as many rooms as possible. Solid fuels officials declared that the coal supply was acute even before the recent strike.

To avoid coal shortages officials advocated the following three measures:

1. Establish stricter distribution of orders so that the available supply can be extended as far as possible.
2. Increase production.
3. Public consumption must be limited to essential needs.

The recent release of 40,000 tons of coal for public consumption is said to be part of a move to shift the impact of the coal shortage from the individual to the dwindling stockpile. There is danger therefore that a future emergency may be induced by maintenance of an inadequate reserve.

The country's chances of keeping warm this winter depend largely, coal and oil officials agreed, on the extent to which consumers will police their own individual drain upon the limited fuel supply.

COUNTY TREASURER of Pickaway County

In World War 1, this vitally needed product was used mostly in making smokeless powder, chemical warfare materials and medical supplies. Today it must do far more... it must provide the base for such indispensable products as synthetic rubber, shatterproof glass, lacquers, plastics and many other of our requirements so essential to victory."

"As a result hundreds of millions of gallons are required every year... half of which is being produced by the beverage distilling industry. Bet you didn't know that, Eben."

"As a matter of fact, I didn't, Judge. That's a mighty important war contribution that had escaped me completely."

OPEN LETTERS

TO SPEEDERS

MOTORISTS: Half a dozen more Circleville and Pickaway county autoists have heard the decree of the OPA board that they cannot drive an automobile for a period of time running from a few days to a month. The suspensions were decreed because the autoists had failed to abide by safe-driving regulations as set up by the Office of Price Administration and the Office of Defense Transportation. These regulations were prepared for the benefit of the public, and it is the public that should obey them. No one likes to lose his driving privileges, and no one will if everyone abides by regulations as they are drawn by the OPA and its kindred organizations. There isn't much the local board can do about it if names of motorists caught violating certain rules are certified by the highway patrol. The OPA sets up a scale of suspensions, and the local unit must follow the orders. Play safe, and drive carefully and legally.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIRCLEVILLE FOLK

SPORTS FANS: The high school football season comes to a conclusion tonight with the Tigers striving for a victory over Washington C. H. The foe has a record similar to Circleville's, but a victory for the Red and Black would put the local team in second place in the South Central Ohio league back of Wilmington. Not only will a football game be played, but fathers of the athletes will be honored at Dads' Night. A homecoming queen and her court will also be presented. Mary Katherine Morgan is the Homecoming queen, being chosen by the vote of the entire student body. The entire evening promises to be colorful, with the high school band in action, and a great crowd of fans expected to be present. If you have not seen the high school team in action this year you should be present. If you have seen the boys play football you should be present again. You'll enjoy the evening.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CLARENCE FRANCIS

GAME PROTECTOR: No one envies your job in this day and age, with plenty of game running all over the county, but with little ammunition available to hunt it. Naturally, you are the fellow most sportsmen will ask concerning the supply of ammunition, and you are supposed to know the answers. But you don't know whether there will be ammunition or whether there will not be any. However, you are supposed to keep people buying licenses whether they will be able to go hunting after obtaining them or whether they will not be able to do so. There is plenty of game and many folk will have plenty of time to help hunt it. It's just possible that the old bow and arrow might be tried again, and then, too, the neighbor who has been expecting such a situation to arise might come up with some shells to tide you over. Fur season starts Monday, skunk, muskrat and other kindred animals being in season, with rabbits, pheasants and Hungarian partridge becoming legal the following Friday.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIVIC-MINDED

ALL: An orchid goes to every one who participated in any way in promotion of the premiere of "This Is the Army," the great patriotic picture shown at the Grand theatre this week. The Army Emergency Relief fund did very well so far as Circleville is concerned, and it is to the credit of every one who worked hard to sell tickets to fill the theatre that a goodly amount of cash was given to the relief unit. Theatre management, civic committees, industries, business houses and individuals are to be congratulated for their efforts which made the premiere a success. And wasn't the show a splendid one?

CIRCUITEER.

TO TURKEY EATERS

FRRIENDS: How many pounds of turkey will you be buying at a top price of 68 cents? The OPA came up with some beautiful figures this week. Yes, sir, they were darbs. And just how many Mr. John Q. Publics will be able to lay it on the line for a big bird weighing from 15 to 20 pounds? Turkey is turkey, and many of us really love to eat the bird, but these OPA ceilings are something. Growers deserve the best price they can possibly obtain, because turkeys are grown at considerable risk. But that 68 cents a pound; it kind of chills you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS

MEN: The splendid report made by the state highway patrol after its inspection of all Pickaway county school buses is indeed a tribute to all of you. The fact that all the buses have been approved, with minor corrections in some respects, speaks well for the safety of our boys and girls who travel to and from school each day. There isn't a single thing you people can do which is more important than trying to save the lives of our young ones. They are valuable.

CIRCUITEER.

TO LAWRENCE GOELLER

SOLDIER: Congratulations to you on your promotion to rank of major in the Army air corps. It is evident that you are doing a good job as a supply officer at the Rome air base. I am always pleased to see a Circleville person move ahead, and your promotion is a happy one for all of us. Keep up the good work.

CIRCUITEER.

TO BILLY EBERT

SEABEE: Every one back home was happy to learn that you are keeping up your interest in the Red Cross mobile blood unit. The fact that you were unable to give the fourth pint of your blood here, because you were called away before the mobile unit returned, didn't prevent you from making your donation. A pint of blood donated in Hawaii is just as good as one given in Circleville. Keep up the good work.

Doctor Advocates Military Training

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I HAVE been a violent anti-militarist (in other words, I think statesmen run us into wars on top of us), but I am convinced

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

from some studies just made that universal military training would be a good thing. And I mean universal—girls as well as boys—and the question accepted except that of being actually bedridden.

My reasons are found in the figures given in a study of 1,000 men students entering the University of Illinois. They show that: 18 per cent could not swim at all. 64 per cent were so weak they could not swim 50 yards. 3 per cent could not chin themselves once.

29 per cent could not chin themselves five times. 24 per cent could not jump an obstacle waist high. 41 per cent could not skin the cat.

These experiments were continued for several years and about the same results recorded every year.

Test of Fitness

A standardized test of physical fitness was then arranged by the physical director. It was simple enough for a person of the most average strength and endurance to pass, consisting of simple exercises such as lying on the back and lifting the legs 30 times. In September, 1942 (almost a year after Pearl Harbor), over 2,000 young men who had come from high schools were given these tests. Thirty-six per cent failed to pass the qualifications of the test. Twenty-three per cent were classified as fair. Only a little over 40 per cent passed the basic qualifications of the test satisfactorily.

This is shocking! It is worse, it is frightening! I am 60 years old and I think I could pass these tests. And here are young men, I suppose about 18 years old, who aren't physically able to fight the seven dwarfs. Think of a boy 15 who can't chin himself five times! What is the matter with the high schools? One thing that I have been telling for years is that they take a few star pseudo-heroes and make football impresarios out of them. The athletic directors make more money out of a good football team than they do out of the boring business of taking a whole class out and creating a class of men of average motor fitness.

Average American Youth

Is the average American youth the one we thought was a funny caricature—the pale youth with the cigarette drooping from one lip, hanging around the pool room corner? Is that fellow actually the average American youth?

I quote the Director of Physical Education of the University of Illinois: "Physical education and recreational features have been inadequate possibly because of inadequate time, facilities and leadership."

"Time on whose part? Leadership on whose part? Facilities on whose part? I never saw the athletic director or the superintendent of a high school (or a high school class) that didn't have enough time! All the facilities you need are a gymnasium or a front yard! And as for leadership, that is up to the superintendents to supply."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
B. C.—Which is more fattening—a piece of bread with butter or a glass of plain milk?
Answer: A glass of milk (5 ounces) with average cream content amounts to 100 calories. A fairly thick slice of white bread (1½ ounces) amounts to 100 calories. How much extra calories you get out of the butter depends on how much you put on. A good serving of butter (1½ ounces) amounts to 100 calories. I would guess your bread and butter would give you 125 calories.

SYNOPSIS

Roommates and cousins, BETH KINMAN, serious-minded and practical, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tension accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
CHURCH BELLS awakened Beth, and she remembered having read that there were hundreds of churches in Washington. There were, as well, the White House, and monuments and parks, the Potomac and great gardens, handsome foreign embassies and the National gallery, all sorts of wonderful things to be seen. She thought for a moment of the green in Pennington, the courthouse, the museum and the new post office, which compared its sight-seeing features, and found she could think of them without homesickness. After all, she hadn't been away a whole day yet.

She opened her eyes and sat up, stretching to look at the hands on her watch on the floor beside the day-bed on which she was sleeping in the Golden's living room. Tossing back the sheet, she got up and went to the window. The sun was hot, but she didn't feel it as her eyes drank in the new view. The Golden's lived in an apartment, but there were trees in the courtyard and the buildings she could see were all low ones, and she had a view of the city. She had a view of the city. She had a view of the city.

Impatient to be dressed and get out to see more than a window view afforded, she turned to find her sleepy-eyed hostess standing in the bedroom doorway.

"Have a good sleep, Beth?" (They had been calling each other by first names since their meeting.) Beth nodded.

"It's really too hot to sleep. You've come at a bad time of year. August can be dreadful here, but you'll love it the rest of the year."

"Helen moved about the tiny kitchenette, getting breakfast. "That is, if you love it at all."

"Don't you think I will?" Beth asked anxiously a little later as they lingered over their breakfast.

"That will depend, Washington is full of vitality, something doing all the time, but it's not doing where the little people are concerned. It's all government. On the social side, it's very social if you're in the right circles. Alas, most of us white-collar workers are not."

Beth laughed at the rueful expression on her young hostess' face.

face. "You don't look as if you missed a social life."

"I don't—now that I'm married. But if you haven't a man, you'll have to make your own social life because there aren't enough men to go around."

"From the looks of the railroad station last night, I'd think most all the men in the country were pouring in here."

"Big men are. I mean business leaders and advisers, and all that. James says it's only beginning. If we get into the war, Washington will probably burst. Meanwhile it's full of nothing but girls rushing here to take stenographic jobs. But you can find fun. I think. They have good movies here and there are lots of parks, and some free concerts and lots of places to see. The two great shortages are beaux and places to live."

That reminded Beth that they were going to see some places from which she was to make a selection of her future home. "They're all boarding houses," Helen said.

"There are only two ways to live in Washington. One is to take an apartment with two or three or even four or five other girls, or else live in a boarding house where you'll get breakfast and dinner. That's what most girls do."

Beth would like to have set about sight-seeing that morning, since she had to go to work the next day, and a week seemed a long time to wait for leisure to feed her eyes on unfamiliar Washington, but it was almost noon before they got the apartment in the apple-orchard a bride demands, and it was 5 o'clock before they found the boarding house that was the one she wanted to live in.

It was only two miles from the office, where she was to work, and while it was narrow and gloomy, and her room was small, it was flanked by two handsome mansions of regency architecture, and she assured Helen it would make her happy to enjoy the mere proximity of such splendor. Helen pointed out that this proximity was the nearest most girls ever got to Washington's upper crust.

"Ambition, either social or professional, is the ingredient that girls like you and I do not need," Helen said. "That's one great difference between Washington and any other city. You can get raises in Washington, but you never get to be one of the big career girls like so many do in New York. I worked in New York once, on a magazine. I got to all the night clubs and even out to the races and to a couple of Long Island week-ends, but it can't happen here. Maybe it can, but it doesn't often."

"Why not?" Beth, who had no social ambitions whatsoever, inquired interestedly.

"Well, you see usually we meet only people within our own income group, fellow workers. The big shots usually are people from other places and they're married, and there's no scarcity of women guests in their circles. And there are so many of us in every office our employers sometimes don't even recognize us on the street."

"Andrea wouldn't care much for this," Beth murmured.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
B. C.—Which is more fattening—a piece of bread with butter or a glass of plain milk?

Answer: A glass of milk (5 ounces) with average cream content amounts to 100 calories. A fairly thick slice of white bread (1½ ounces) amounts to 100 calories. How much extra calories you get out of the butter depends on how much you put on. A good serving of butter (1½ ounces) amounts to 100 calories. I would guess your bread and butter would give you 125 calories.

"Now you take Mr. Slade." Beth was only too glad to learn something about her new employer. "I've been working for him ever since he came to Washington last November, but he didn't even know my first name until I told him I was leaving to get married, which, incidentally, he took as a personal insult. You'll have to get used to being made to feel extremely unimportant and important at the same time. I mean you're a cog in a very important wheel, but as a human being, well, not many Washington men have time to consider their help as persons."

"But Mr. Slade won't be here all the time," Beth said, just a little apprehensive about the prospect which Helen was making as dull as possible.

"There'll be plenty of work for you to do. There are five other men in his office and you'll have to work for them. But cheer up, the hours aren't long. You'll be through at half past four every day, and free to do whatever you like at night."

Beth did cheer up, remembering all the things she wanted to see in Washington. Maybe she could start her work on Monday. Meanwhile the girls had to go back to Helen's apartment, have dinner and get Beth moved into her new home, and set for the morning.

TO SPEEDERS

MOTORISTS: Half a dozen more Circleville and Pickaway county autoists have heard the decree of the OPA board that they cannot drive an automobile for a period of time running from a few days to a month. The suspensions were decreed because the autoists had failed to abide by safe-driving regulations as set up by the Office of Price Administration and the Office of Defense Transportation. These regulations were prepared for the benefit of the public, and it is the public that should obey them. No one likes to lose his driving privileges, and no one will if everyone abides by regulations as they are drawn by the OPA and its kindred organizations. There isn't much the local board can do about it if names of motorists caught violating certain rules are certified by the highway patrol. The OPA sets up a scale of suspensions, and the local unit must follow the orders. Play safe, and drive carefully and legally.

TO CIRCLEVILLE FOLK

SPORTS FANS: The high school football season comes to a conclusion tonight with the Tigers striving for a victory over Washington C. H. The foe has a record similar to Circleville's, but a victory for the Red and Black would put the local team in second place in the South Central Ohio league back of Wilmington. Not only will a football game be played, but fathers of the athletes will be honored at Dads' Night. A homecoming queen and her court will also be presented. Mary Katherine Morgan is the Homecoming queen, being chosen by the vote of the entire student body. The entire evening promises to be colorful, with the high school band in action, and a great crowd of fans expected to be present. If you have not seen the high school team in action this year you should be present. If you have seen the boys play football you should be present again. You'll enjoy the evening.

TO CLARENCE FRANCIS

GAME PROTECTOR: No one envies you your job in this day and age, with plenty of game running all over the county, but with little ammunition available to hunt it. Naturally, you are the fellow most sportsmen will ask concerning the supply of ammunition, and you are supposed to know the answers. But you don't know whether there will be ammunition or whether there will not be any. However, you are supposed to keep people buying licenses whether they will be able to go hunting after obtaining them or whether they will not be able to do so. There is plenty of game and many folk will have plenty of time to help hunt it. It's just possible that the old bow and arrow might be tried again, and then, too, the neighbor who has been expecting such a situation to arise might come up with some shells to tide you over. Fur season starts Monday, skunk, muskrat and other kindred animals being in season, with rabbits, pheasants and Hungarian partridge becoming legal the following Friday.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIVIC-MINDED

ALL: An orchid goes to every one who participated in any way in promotion of the premiere of "This Is the Army," the great patriotic picture shown at the Grand theatre this week. The Army Emergency Relief fund did very well so far as Circleville is concerned, and it is to the credit of every one who worked hard to sell tickets to fill the theatre that a goodly amount of cash was given to the relief unit. Theatre management, civic committees, industries, business houses and individuals are to be congratulated for their efforts which made the premiere a success. And wasn't the show a splendid one?

CIRCUITEER.

TO TURKEY EATERS

FRRIENDS: How many pounds of turkey will you be buying at a top price of 68 cents? The OPA came up with some beautiful figures this week. Yes, sir, they were darbs. And just how many Mr. John Q. Publics will be able to lay it on the line for a big bird weighing from 15 to 20 pounds? Turkey is turkey, and many of us really love to eat the bird, but these OPA ceilings are something. Growers deserve the best price they can possibly obtain, because turkeys are grown at considerable risk. But that 68 cents a pound; it kind of chills you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS

MEN: The splendid report made by the state highway patrol after its inspection of all Pickaway county school buses is indeed a tribute to all of you. The fact that all the buses have been approved, with minor corrections in some respects, speaks well for the safety of our boys and girls who travel to and from school each day. There isn't a single thing you people can do which is more important than trying to save the lives of our young ones. They are valuable.

CIRCUITEER.

TO LAWRENCE GOELLER

SOLDIER: Congratulations to you on your promotion to rank of major in the Army air corps. It is evident that you are doing a good job as a supply officer at the Rome air base. I am always pleased to see a Circleville person move ahead, and your promotion is a happy one for all of us. Keep up the good work.

CIRCUITEER.

TO BILLY EBERT

SEABEE: Every one back home was happy to learn that you are keeping up your interest in the Red Cross mobile blood unit. The fact that you were unable to give the fourth pint of your blood here, because you were called away before the mobile unit returned, didn't prevent you from making your donation. A pint of blood donated in Hawaii is just as good as one given in Circleville. Keep up the good work.

Doctor Advocates Military Training

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I HAVE been a violent anti-militarist (in other words, I think statesmen run us into wars on too slim pretenses), but I am convinced

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

from some studies just made that universal military training would be a good thing. And I mean universal—girls as well as boys—and no excuses accepted except that of being actually bedridden.

My reasons are found in the figures given in a study of 1,000 men students entering the University of Illinois. They show that: 15 per cent could not swim at all. 64 per cent were so weak they could not swim 50 yards. 3 per cent could not chin themselves once.

28 per cent could not chin themselves five times.

24 per cent could not jump an obstacle waist high.

41 per cent could not skin the cat.

These experiments were continued for several years and about the same results resulted every year.

Test of Fitness

A standardized test of physical fitness was then arranged by the physical director. It was simple enough for a person of the most average strength and endurance to pass, consisting of simple exercises such as lying on the back and lifting the legs 30 times. In September, 1942 (almost a year after Pearl Harbor), over 2,000 young men who had come from high schools were given these tests. Thirty-six per cent failed to pass the qualifications of the test. Twenty-three per cent were classified as fair. Only a little over 40 per cent passed the basic qualifications of the test satisfactorily.

This is shocking! It is worse, it is frightening! I am 50 years old and I think I could pass these tests. And here are young men, I suppose about 18 years old, who aren't physically able to fight the seven dwarfs. Think of a boy 15 who can't chin himself five times!

What is the matter with the high schools? One thing that I have been yelling for years is that they take a few star pseudo-heroes and make football impresarios out of them. The athletic directors make more money out of a good football team than they do out of the boring business of taking a whole class out and creating a class of men of average motor fitness.

Average American Youth

Is the average American youth the one we thought was a funny caricature—the pale youth with the cigarette drooping from one lip, hanging around the pool room corner? Is that fellow actually the average American youth? Is pool the only athletic game besides football that high school superintendents encourage?

I quote the Director of Physical Education of the University of Illinois: "Physical education and recreational features have been inadequate possibly because of inadequate time, facilities and leadership."

Time on whose part? Leadership on whose part? Facilities on whose part?

I never saw the athletic director or the superintendent of a high school (or a high school class) that didn't have enough time! All the facilities you need are a gymnasium or a front yard! And as for leadership, that is up to the superintendents to supply.

try that need to be killed in order to preserve the republic. His army has been winning gloriously. His co-operative farms, one of the great Soviet experiments, are very successful. Stalin knows, moreover, what new worlds he wants to conquer when peace comes. So that his people will worship him as they now do Lenin, he plans to give them back traditions out away by the revolution. A comfortable life also, with luxuries. And conventional religion and education."

From now on, the citizens of the Soviet must be regarded as equals of the English and Americans in elegance. The peace which they have won must be rewarded with the charming trappings of life. "Stalin wants to dress up Russia," the man from Moscow told me. "He's already begun to dress himself up. You notice that he received Hull and Eden in a glittering new marshal's uniform. His people want to dress up, too. They want silk stockings, tiled bath rooms, automobiles, fine clothes, washing machines—tricks of easy living that can be best got by being friends of the nations that have the most tricks to offer. Don't look surprised. The reasons for harmony at Moscow are as simple as this."

Stalin's determination to build up lost Russian traditions are being shown by many small but significant acts, my Moscow authority believes. There, for example, are the "Twenty Rules for Students." After the revolution the pendulum swung far to the left in education. All schools were made co-educational. Formal authority was done away with. Lately, co-education has been abolished. Girls and boys go to separate schools. Every student has been made to learn the "Twenty Rules."

What are these rules? Not rules thought up by radical Soviet leaders. They are identical rules of deportment by which Russian girls and boys were taught good manners and obedience in the old tsarist days.

It's getting harder to get a divorce in Russia than it was in the early days of the Union, I was told also. And another national trend toward conservatism is the new interest in religion. The scriptures that were cut off the cathedrals by the revolutionaries are still off. The churches themselves continue to be used as museums. But, there's no way no ban against religious worship. A man may pray wherever he wants to. He may kneel down in the street if the inspiration comes. A recent film shows a large group of Russians making the sign of the cross. This, according to my Soviet authority, was an arranged scene. A sort of propaganda to show that new Russia has respect for God.

SYNOPSIS
Reunited and content.
BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tension accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been so successful in getting ahead in the world. While Andrea has been attracted by DANNY ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but who is a successful and also married.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
CHURCH BELLS awakened Beth, and she remembered having read that there were hundreds of churches in Washington. There were, as well, the White House, and monuments and parks, the Potomac and great gardens, handsome foreign embassies and the National gallery, all sorts of wonderful things to be seen. She thought for a moment of the green in Pennington, the courthouse, the museum and the new post office, which compared its eight-story features, and found she could think of them without homesickness. After all, she hadn't been away a whole day yet.

She opened her eyes and sat up, stretching to look at the hands on her watch on the floor beside the day-bed on which she was sleeping in the Golden's living room. Tossing back the sheet, she got up and went to the window. The sun was hot, but she didn't feel it as her eyes drank in the new view. The Golden's lived in an apartment, but there were trees in the courtyard and the buildings she could see were all low and none more than four stories. She'd had an idea that Washington would be filled with skyscrapers, and mostly treeless, like New York. It was pleasant to find it was not.

Impatient to be dressed and get out to see more than a window view afforded, she turned to find her sleepy-eyed hostess standing in the bedroom doorway.

"Have a good sleep, Beth?" (They had been calling each other by first names since their meeting.)

Beth nodded.

"It's really too hot to sleep. You've come at a bad time of year. August can be dreadful here, but you'll love it the rest of the year. Helen moved about the tiny Edinboro, getting breakfast."

"That is, if you love it at all."

"Don't you think I will?" Beth asked anxiously a little later as they lingered over their breakfast.

A dear James having gone to play golf before either of the girls were awake.

"That will depend, Washington is full of vitality, something doing all the time, but it's not doing where the little people are concerned. It's all government. On the social side, it's very social if you're in the right circles. Alas, most of us white-collar workers are not."

Beth laughed at the rueful expression on her young hostess' face.

It was Friday before she wrote to Andrea. Friday before she could face the task of writing white lies about how much she liked Washington and how exciting her job was, because Washington baked and simmered and gaped under a late summer heat wave. At the end of the long, dull days at the office, filled with typing lists and reports that were as impersonal and meaningless to her as a load of shale in a Chilean mine, Beth took herself home to a shower, dressed and ate her dinner, and then peeled off her clothes again and tried to read herself to sleep to prepare for another day.

Too tired, too heat-laden to make any social life for herself, she tasted her first attack of homesickness during that first week, and her dreams were filled with memories of Judge Mayfield, of the old familiar office, of the cool evenings in the apartment where Peg had taken her place.

She'd got to know some of the girls who lived at her boarding house, but they all had beaux and dates, and she was shy about letting them know how lonely she was. Helen Golden and her husband were busy with plans to move to Maryland, and there was no one she knew in Washington, no one to talk to.

But nothing of this was in the letter she wrote to Andrea, sealed without re-reading it, and slipped in her pocket that Friday night to take down to the post-box.

Out of the shadows a tall figure confronted her and a western voice said, "Hello! I've been everywhere but to the White House looking for you. Remember me?"

Soviet Russia Now Quits
Role of Roughneck Nation

Stalin Encourages Desire
For Broader Life for All

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—"The Soviet Union joined the United States, Great Britain and China in the Moscow war and peace pact because Premier Josef Stalin is determined to lead his people out of the darkness of suspicion into the sun of respectability."

This is the answer, according to a military man just back from Moscow, to the unexpected and comforting alliance of the four powers.

"Stalin knows that the only way in which he can make a respectable place for his people and make the world forget the 'Red' stigma is to co-operate with those nations that have the most respectability to offer," continued my military friend. "The Soviet Union's greatest moment of triumph, to date, was that moment when United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull and British Secretary of Foreign Affairs Anthony Eden traveled all the way to Moscow, with hat in hand, to urge Stalin, 'Come on in with us. The water's fine.'"

If you are to understand Stalin at all, so I was told, you must remember that he is vain. All leaders are vain. Or they wouldn't step out from the crowd. Stalin yearns to be regarded as a great man. What use are these victories won against the Germans with blood and sweat if the Soviet continues to be disturbed by the nations it most admires?

"Didn't you know that Josef Stalin is tired of being thought of as a butcher boy?" the returned traveler asked me. "He is weary of being looked down on as a vulgarian. He wants to join the easy brotherhood of Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill. And Chiang Kai-shek, too—as a social equal, if you like to put it that way. He wants to be a gentleman among gentlemen—a hero, not just another dictator in the history books."

I asked my Soviet authority to tell me more about the Stalin mind.

"Why," he continued, "the whole thing is as understandable as kindergarten work. Stalin has killed all the people in his own coun-

For Friday, November 12

A DIFFICULT and dangerous day, with pitfalls, mistakes, and peculiar adventures arising from many sources. While the energies and inclinations to industry, diligence and constructive effort are stimulated yet there may be lack of approval from influential places and at the same time there may be a threat of fraud, misrepresentation, schemes and financial loss. Be cautious in handling all writings, contracts and agreements. In all shun even the semblance of suspicion or collusion.

Those whose birthday it is may accomplish moderate success in the use of well-directed energies and hard work, if they use more than customary vigilance in handling paper, writings, agreements, verbal and legal understanding, as these are subject to distortion, misconstruction, fraud, schemes and other irregularities resulting in financial loss. Elders, employers and supervisors may not be cooperative, and needed support at critical moments may be withheld. Be careful in travel and dealing with all manner of agents and go-betweens. Husband the financial resources.

A child born on this day may have sound traits and practical abilities but may be the victim of misfortunes, with loss of papers, funds and reputation through strange or tricky circumstances.

For 20 years, as head of the fraud section of the Internal Revenue Department, he collected millions of dollars in delinquent taxes for Uncle Sam and was the nemesis of tax dodgers. Wilson was responsible for sending scores of big chiefs to prison, including Al Capone.

The Sanctity of the Home
HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 14 is Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-30; Mark 10:2-12; the Golden Text being Matt. 5:8. "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.") is the subject of today's lesson, and it is based on the commandment, "Thou shalt not commit adultery."

Jesus said, in His sermon on the mount, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." The pure in heart—how many human beings do you suppose there are on earth who are truly and always pure in their inmost hearts?

To Jesus the thought was as bad as the deed. To hate your brother without cause was to be a murderer; to look with lust was to be an adulterer. Thoughts come unbidden, but the bad thought can be cast out of one's mind, for Jesus said, speaking figuratively, "If thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out." Not literally, of course. Physically maiming of one's self does not help. To make the eye the obedient servant of the mind and spirit is to pluck out the bad eye and cast it forth.

What God Hath Joined

What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

Later, when with His disciples in the house, they asked Him the same question, and His answer was, "Whoever shall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery against her. And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery."

How can two people stand up before a company and solemnly promise to be loyal, loving, to leave all others and cleave only to each other, and then disregard their sacred vows? Not only once, but maybe twice, three times, or more, in one lifetime?

When a man or woman is faithful to the marriage vows there is a suggested lack of the basic elements of real character—responsibility, loyalty, integrity. A solemn promise means nothing to such a one; selfishness and lust take the place of love, self-abnegation and faithfulness. Better to pluck out the eye, cut off the hand than live in the hell that follows.

CAPONE NEMESIS RETIRES
CHICAGO — Louis H. Wilson, "King of Bill Collectors," has retired after 25 years in federal service. For 20 years, as head of the fraud section of the Internal Revenue Department, he collected millions of dollars in delinquent taxes for Uncle Sam and was the nemesis of tax dodgers. Wilson was responsible for sending scores of big chiefs to prison, including Al Capone.

The Sanctity of the Home HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 14 is Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-30; Mark 10:2-12; the Golden Text being Matt. 5:8, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.")

THE SANCTITY of the home is the subject of today's lesson, and it is based on the commandment, "Thou shalt not commit adultery."

Jesus said, in His sermon on the mount, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." The pure in heart—how many human beings do you suppose there are on earth who are truly and always pure in their inmost hearts?

To Jesus the thought was as bad as the deed. To hate your brother without cause was to be a murderer; to look with lust was to be an adulterer. Thoughts come unbidden, but the bad thought can be cast out of one's mind, for Jesus said, speaking figuratively, "If thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out." Not literally, of course. Physically maiming of one's self does not help. To make the eye the obedient servant of the mind and spirit is to pluck out the bad eye and cast it forth.

If Thy Hand Offend
"And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell." The same rule applies to the hand as to the eye. To control its movements; to make it a good, obedient servant to all right commands, to be a help in your growth in spiritual life instead of a hindrance, is to keep the body whole—not maimed in the sight of God.

On this subject of the sanctity of the home, the Pharisees questioned Jesus, always hoping that they would get Him to admit something that they could construe as treasonable to the state or blasphemous. "Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife?" What says Moses, the law giver? Jesus asked, "Moses suffered to write a bill of divorce, and to put her away," they answered. "For the hardness of your heart he wrote you this precept," was Jesus' quick answer. The Pharisees themselves were divided on this question of divorce, one group wishing to make divorce easy; the other holding that only for notorious unchastity could a woman be divorced. Moses did not command, but only permitted divorce, Jesus brought out, presupposing the existence of it, and seeking to regulate it.

Jesus then quotes from Genesis, "From the beginning of creation God made them male and female. For this cause a man shall leave his father and mother, and cleave unto his wife: And they twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh."

What God Hath Joined
"What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

Later, when with His disciples in the house, they asked Him the same question, and His answer was: "Whosoever shall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery against her. And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery."

How can two people stand up before a company and solemnly promise to be loyal, loving, to leave all others and cleave only to each other, and then disregard their sacred vows? Not only once, but maybe twice, three times, or more, in one lifetime?

When a man or woman is faithful to the marriage vows there is a suggested lack of the basic elements of real character—responsibility, loyalty, integrity. A solemn promise means nothing to such a one; selfishness and lust take the place of love, self-abnegation and faithfulness. Better to pluck out the eye, cut off the hand than live in the hell that follows.

OTTO GRAHAM'S PASSING ONLY WILDCAT HOPE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 — Notre Dame drags the best football record in the nation into Dwyer stadium at Evanston tomorrow with the hope that the Northwestern Wildcats won't make them drag it back out again in a scratched and mauled condition.

The so-called Wildcats bear little resemblance this year to the clawing bundle of furry dynamite whose name they have sported since their inception.

The only key to an upset lies in the big right hand of Otto Graham, aerial artist of Lynn Waldor's eleven. The Irish haven't faced a passing attack this season that matches the brand of pitching Graham puts out.

Pitted against the big Waukegan, Ill., senior as he strives to fling the Irish into defeat will be the spectacular Irish forward wall, averaging 200 pounds from end to end, that has allowed only one touchdown along the ground in seven games.

Northwestern might have had an outside chance with such dependables as Vic Schwall, Herman Frickey, Don Buffmeier and Dud Kean in its backfield. They dashed Wildcat hopes for a big season when they were transferred to other posts in the Navy V-12 program.

Since the only Wildcat chance lies in a concerted aerial barrage, fans were looking for a brilliant passing battle between Graham and the 18-year-old stand-in for Angelo Bertelli, who made good in the Irish win over Army—Jack Lujack.

It looks like the Irish with plenty to spare as they ride to their eighth consecutive victory.

Michigan is a cinch to capture another win in its quest for a piece of the Big Ten Conference title. Weak Wisconsin provides what little opposition the Wolverines will encounter at Ann Arbor.

Purdue, running head and head with the Wolves for the championship, is idle tomorrow.

Illinois and Ohio State hack away at each other in Columbus. Both clubs are "high" after victories last week. The Buckeyes plastered Pittsburgh and Illinois copped a close one from Iowa.

The rest of the Midwest football cards pits Great Lakes against Indiana at Indianapolis; Iowa and Minnesota; Pittsburgh against Nebraska and Camp Grant vs. Iowa Preflight Seahawks at Iowa City.

ANN ARBOR, Nov. 12—Elroy Hirsch, Michigan's ace ground gainer, was declared a doubtful starter today in the game with Wisconsin.

If Hirsch's injuries should keep him out of the sidelines, his place will be taken by Bob Nussbaumer, sophomore Marine trainee. Hirsch needs eight touchdowns to establish a new Western Conference record and might well succeed.

HIRSCH MAY NOT BE IN WOLFE STARTING LINEUP

Circleville high grid team's starting lineup remained a question Friday as Coach Roy Black prepared his youths for their final contest of the 1943 season scheduled at 8 o'clock tonight against Washington C. H.

The Blue Lions are coming here intent on victory, since a win for the Fayette boys would put Washington, Greenfield and Circleville into a three way tie for the second spot in the league, championship of which has already been won by Wilmington. A CHS victory puts the Tigers alone in second place.

Three problems are facing the Tiger mentor, the playing condition of Freck Heath, Jim Wells and Jim Dade. Heath is almost certain to start despite an ouchy knee. Wells is in doubt since he is still weak from the knockout he suffered last week at Grove City, and Dade is almost certain to be on the bench. He is suffering from strained ligaments in his side. The tall end who handles the Tiger kickoff role insists he will play this game, and it is just possible he may be ready.

Add these three casualties to Dave Mader, first string end who has a wrist fracture, and Bobby Grubb, regular right halfback, who has a collarbone fracture, and the Tigers are found to be in a pretty bad shape physically.

Washington is centering its attack in Bill Rudduck, diminutive but fast and hard-driving quarterback. Rudduck passes, runs, kicks and does about everything else a backfield man can do. He has good support at many positions.

Coach Black is hoping that his boys will get their "first half complex" out of the way early. In the three games they have lost two of them have been dropped in the first two periods. Boys' Industrial school had 19 of its 26 points in the first half, and Grove City had all of its 16 in the first two periods.

The game is in the books as Homecoming and Dad's Night, special features being planned by the Stooze club in observance of the Homecoming queen and the fathers of members of the squad.

Frank Gebhardt, Grand theatre manager, informed Coach Black that a victory over Washington C. H. will mean a free picture show for the coaching staff and the entire football squad.

PERRY QUINTET WINNER 48-17 IN COURT GAME

Perry township's basketball team, rated as one of the best in Pickaway county this year, won a 48 to 17 victory Thursday night in Circleville high school gymnasium, Washington township quintet being the victim.

Perry has size, speed and experience, and is being touted highly in county cage circles.

The Atlanta reserves won a 10 to 7 preliminary. Circleville high freshmen won a 21-16 game from the Washington eighth grade.

IRISH FAVORED; ILLINOIS LIKED OVER BUCKEYES

Notre Dame Has Everything; Northwestern Has Graham; Other Guesses Voiced

By John Cashman

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—The eyes of the nation will be on the Irish of Notre Dame tomorrow, waiting for them to let themselves down after being stuffed with praise and gluttoned with seven straight victories. A great deal of attention will also be paid to young Otto Graham, who leads the Wildcats of Northwestern against the Irish in a try for a spectacular upset.

Graham is a fine player. He ran up four touchdowns against Wisconsin last week, passed for another, and kicked three points after touchdown. But, for Graham, you have Johnny Lujack, the 18-year old back who led the rout against Army. And for men who are nonentities compared to Graham, you have Creighton Miller, Jim Mello and Julius Rykovich. If this is not enough to set you in favor of the Irish, there is a youngster hanging around to take the place of Rykovich, should the latter be jerked. That would be Bob Kelly, who also played a great game against Army.

To run counter to Notre Dame in picking the winners at this moment would be sheer insanity. The Irish have everything it takes.

Service Game Awaited

Things are slowing down in the East, pending the titanic Army-Navy struggle. We take Navy over Columbia, which has dropped six straight; Army over a tough Sampson naval training outfit; a great Bainbridge naval eleven over weaker Maryland and hard-fighting Brown over New London coast guard.

Bucknell looks good in a close one over Case; Colgate in another tough one over RPI; Dartmouth over Cornell on the greenbacks; smoothworking F & M over Will low Grove; Harvard over Tufts; Rutgers an easy one over Lehigh; powerhouse Penn to take North Carolina; rugged Penn State over Temple; Swarthmore to trample Muhlenberg; Yale over Princeton.

In the South, Georgia pre-flight looks fine over Clemson on the passing of Filipovic alone; Duke over Virginia; Georgia Tech over Tulane and Georgia over VMI.

Camp Davis looks good over Presbyterian; North Carolina State and Davidson a tie; South Carolina over Fort Benning; Jacksonville Navy over Daniel field; Marquette over Memphis Naval; Camp Lejeune over North Carolina pre-flight in a tough one; West Virginia over Bethany.

In the West, it's Miami, O. over Baldwin-Wallace; Drake over Iowa State; Great Lakes over Indiana; Kansas over Warrensburg; Michigan over Wisconsin; mighty Minnesota to hit Iowa; Missouri over Oklahoma; Illinois over Ohio State and Depauw over Washburn.

Texas looks good over TCU in the Southwest; Arkansas in a close one over SMU; Texas A & M in a gallop over Rice; Texas Tech over

OTTO GRAHAM'S PASSING ONLY WILDCAT HOPE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 — Notre Dame drags the best football record in the nation into Dwyer stadium at Evanston tomorrow with the hope that the Northwestern Wildcats won't make them drag it back out again in a scratched and mauled condition.

The so-called Wildcats bear little resemblance this year to the clawing bundle of furry dynamite whose name they have sported since their inception.

The only key to an upset lies in the big right hand of Otto Graham, aerial artist of Lynn Waldorf's eleven. The Irish haven't faced a passing attack this season that matches the brand of pitching Graham puts out.

Pitted against the big Waukegan, Ill., senior as he strives to fling the Irish into defeat will be the spectacular Irish forward wall, averaging 200 pounds from end to end, that has allowed only one touchdown along the ground in seven games.

Northwestern might have had an outside chance with such dependables as Vic Schwall, Herman Frickey, Don Buffmire and Dud Kean in its backfield. They dashed Wildcat hopes for a big season when they were transferred to other posts in the Navy V-12 program.

Since the only Wildcat chance lies in a concerted aerial barrage, fans were looking for a brilliant passing battle between Graham and the 18-year-old stand-in for Angelo Bertelli, who made good in the Irish win over Army—Jack Luck.

It looks like the Irish with plenty to spare as they ride to their eighth consecutive victory.

Michigan is a cinch to capture another win in its quest for a piece of the Big Ten Conference title. Weak Wisconsin provides what little opposition the Wolverines will encounter at Ann Arbor.

Purdue, running head and head with the Wolves for the championship, is idle tomorrow.

Illinois and Ohio State hack away at each other in Columbus. Both clubs are "high" after victories last week. The Buckeyes plastered Pittsburgh and Illinois copped a close one from Iowa.

The rest of the Midwest football cards pits Great Lakes against Indiana at Indianapolis; Iowa and Minnesota; Pittsburgh against Nebraska and Camp Grant vs. Iowa Preflight Seahawks at Iowa City.

ANN ARBOR, Nov. 12—Elroy Hirsch, Michigan's ace ground gainer, was declared a doubtful starter today in the game with Wisconsin.

If Hirsch's injuries should keep him out of the sidelines, his place will be taken by Bob Nussbaumer, sophomore Marine trainee. Hirsch needs eight touchdowns to establish a new Western Conference record and might well succeed.

The Blue Lions are coming here intent on victory, since a win for the Fayette boys would put Washington, Greenfield and Circleville into a three way tie for the second spot in the league, championship of which has already been won by Wilmington. A CHS victory puts the Tigers alone in second place.

Three problems are facing the Tiger mentor, the playing condition of Freck Heath, Jim Wells and Jim Dade. Heath is almost certain to start despite an ouchy knee. Wells is in doubt since he is still weak from the knockout he suffered last week at Grove City, and Dade is almost certain to be on the bench. He is suffering from strained ligaments in his side. The tall end who handles the Tiger kickoff role insists he will play this game, and it is just possible he may be ready.

Add these three casualties to Dave Mader, first string end who has a wrist fracture, and Bobby Grubb, regular right halfback, who has a collarbone fracture, and the Tigers are found to be in a pretty bad shape physically.

Washington is centering its attack in Bill Rudluck, diminutive

In Many Sports

Took a gander at one of Ohio's best grid teams Thursday night—Newark...

Newark has a husky team, a crew of strong tackles led by Navy Bill Gorsuch and a quartet of speedy and hard-driving backs paced by Budgy Jackson, who is good enough for any one's team...

He's trying to make the navy V-5 and may play football next year with a good college team...

Gorsuch is a husky, playing tackle offensively and backing the strong side of the line on defense...

Joining the Navy last Winter, he missed basketball...

He was on a submarine that was depth-bombed in the Mediterranean, and came up with the bends...

He received a medical discharge and returned to join the team the week that Forgraves, a first string tackle, was drafted...

Gorsuch is 19, a junior, married and daddy of a little boy...

George Vlerobema, Circleville boy who coaches Newark's backfield, was host to Charlie Walters, Judy Gordon, Johnny Heiskell and Ye Janitor at the game and at his home after the game...

George is doing a swell job at Newark and is well liked there...

In the Newark crowd were Lawrence (Cracky) Mack, former Circleville youth who manages a Big Bear store in Newark, and Glenn (Bozo) Vanscoy, who is connected with the Gas Co....

MARY BOLAND GUEST

Mary Boland, the acid-tongued screen star who threatened to turn a woodpecker loose on Charlie the last time she visited him, will be McCarthy's guest on Sunday at 7 p. m. over NBC.

Miss Boland, the founder of the POOFS (Protectors of our Feathered Friends) tried very hard in the Spring to interest Edgar Bergen and Charlie in joining her organization. Bergen was invited to speak before the members and Charlie was invited to visit the woodpeckers at her bird sanctuary.

JOSEPH CALLEIA

Host Raymond's able accomplice in the special thriller for the festive night of the thirteenth should have the necessary stamina to withstand a Sanctum session for he was born of Spanish and English parentage on the now beleaguered island of Malta. Calleia is a man of many talents. As a youth, he was sent to London to study engineering and while there started his stage career by singing Scotch ballads.

Point Values Suspended On Jams, Jellies, Fruit Spreads

NEW PROGRAM IN EFFECT FOR HOLIDAYS ONLY

Only Jars Weighing Five And One-Half Ounces Or Less Affected SEEN AS SOLDIER GIFTS

Rationing To Be Resumed In February, Local Board Advised

Suspension of point valuations on small jars of jams, jellies and fruit spreads was announced Friday by the Office of Price Administration, the new program being effective at once.

Only jars weighing five and one-half ounces or less are affected, points continuing to be collected on goods in heavier classes.

The OPA, in information sent to the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office, said that the point values on these items have been lifted since they are splendid gifts for men in service. Many gifts have already been sent overseas to men in the army and navy despite the point charges made for them.

OPA said also that stocks in the hands of most retailers are relatively small.

Sizes through eight ounces have had a valuation of two and three points. Jars of jams, jellies and fruit spreads which weigh more than five and one-half ounces will continue to be rationed.

The point-free policy will be in effect only through the holiday season.

The local office was informed that ration values will be re-established on the February chart for processed foods.

Clerks of the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office are being kept busy renewing gasoline ration permits of B and C book holders.

Elmer Stebleton, chief clerk of the board, said Friday that about 1,500 supplemental rations have been renewed in the last several weeks and that the stream of motorists seeking renewals is not letting up.

The influx of renewal requests is caused, the board chief said, because of the cut in valuation of B and C coupons from three gallons to two gallons a coupon.

The board clerk pointed out that most of the B and C books expired originally about January 1, but that because of the valuation slash many war workers, mail drivers and others who must operate their cars will be without gasoline unless their supplemental rations are renewed.

HONOR ROLL AT NEW HOLLAND IS DEDICATED

New Holland community joined Thursday in a ceremony which saw the village's Honor Roll, containing more than 200 young men and women who are in service, dedicated. Because of cold weather, the crowd at the dedication was not so large as expected, although many residents of the district, among them many parents, wives and sweethearts of soldiers and sailors who are fighting in the far-flung war theatres, were present.

The program got under way at 2:30 with patriotic music and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag opening festivities. School children, dismissed from classes for the day, participated in the program.

Mrs. Roscoe Shipley, who served as executive chairman of the committee sponsoring the financial campaign which provided funds for the Honor Roll's construction, presented the Rev. V. C. Stump of the New Holland and Atlanta Methodist churches as the principal speaker.

The pastor discussed the significance of the Armistice celebration, and voiced a plea that the present struggle be terminated with a peace plan that will guarantee that it will be the last conflict in the world's history.

The solo, "God Bless America," sung by Johnny Lininger, followed the address, with the Lininger youngster and his sister, Judy, unveiling the Honor Roll. Judy Lininger replaced Ann Briggs in the unveiling role, the latter being stricken with chicken pox.

Contributions which made the Honor Roll possible were collected from individuals and business houses in New Holland, Atlanta and the Perry township community in general.

THREE HURT IN CRASH OF TRUCK, AUTOMOBILE

Three Williamsport community residents suffered injuries Thursday in an automobile and truck collision on Route 22 near Washington C. H.

Mrs. Glenn Baker suffered severe bruises and shock, while Eugene Upperman and Webb Steinhauer, also of the Williamsport district, were bruised.

The accident happened in a bridge when vehicles driven by Upperman and Nelson Wilson, Columbus trucker, came together. Both vehicles were severely damaged.

Route 22 between New Holland and Washington C. H. was closed for more than an hour while wreckage was removed from the bridge. The bridge was also damaged.

DESERTION LAID TO WIFE

A Circleville marriage of June 11, 1936, went on the rocks Thursday in Fairfield county divorce court when George M. Neal, Lancaster, who is now serving in the army filed, a petition against Josephine Neal, also of Lancaster.

The couple has two children. Neal charges that his wife left him more than three years ago.

EARLY MAILING OF GIFTS HELD AS NECESSITY

Another appeal was voiced Friday by postal officials to "mail early". Unless Christmas gifts are submitted to the postoffices throughout the country during the month of November there is possibility that they will not be delivered in time for the holidays.

Pointing out that manpower shortage is menacing the speed with which Christmas packages are usually handled, federal postal officials have informed the local office that delivery of Yule gifts posted after December 10 is not guaranteed.

Mails are expected to be unusually heavy during the entire pre-Christmas rush thousands of gifts to be sent to men in service in all parts of the country.

Postmaster A. Hulse Hays announced an hour schedule change at the local office effective Monday. The stamp window will open at 7:30 a. m. Circleville time, and the office will be closed at 6 p. m., the office opening at present at 6:30 and closing at 5.

Very little business is transacted at the office during the first hour under the present schedule, thus the change.

KIWANIS CLUB PLANS PROGRAM ON AMERICANISM

Numerous Circleville industrial leaders, representatives of banks, Chamber of Commerce and other business organizations have been invited by Circleville Kiwanians to attend their meeting next Monday at 6:30 p. m. in Hanley's to hear an outline of a Kiwanis International program called "Keeping America American". The local club has voted to cooperate with the promotion program planned by the international organization.

The Rev. Otto Ebert of Columbus, a leader of Kiwanis and vitally interested in the "Keeping America American" program, will be the speaker.

Promotion of the program in Circleville district is in charge of the Kiwanis club's War Time Citizenship committee headed by Dwight Steele.

Kiwanis International has adopted the project as its No. 1 undertaking for 1944.

The program will be outlined in its entirety with much information to be available for Kiwanians and civic leaders.

Point Values Suspended On Jams, Jellies, Fruit Spreads

NEW PROGRAM IN EFFECT FOR HOLIDAYS ONLY

Only Jars Weighing Five And One-Half Ounces Or Less Affected

SEEN AS SOLDIER GIFTS

Rationing To Be Resumed In February, Local Board Advised

Suspension of point valuations on small jars of jams, jellies and fruit spreads was announced Friday by the Office of Price Administration, the new program being effective at once.

Only jars weighing five and one-half ounces or less are affected, points continuing to be collected on goods in heavier classes.

The OPA, in information sent to the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office, said that the point values on these items have been lifted since they are splendid gifts for men in service. Many gifts have already been sent overseas to men in the army and navy despite the point charges made for them.

OPA said also that stocks in the hands of most retailers are relatively small.

Sizes through eight ounces have had a valuation of two and three points. Jars of jams, jellies and fruit spreads which weigh more than five and one-half ounces will continue to be rationed.

The point-free policy will be in effect only through the holiday season.

The local office was informed that ration values will be re-established on the February chart for processed foods.

Clerks of the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office are being kept busy renewing gasoline ration permits of B and C book holders.

Elmer Stebleton, chief clerk of the board, said Friday that about 1,500 supplemental rations have been renewed in the last several weeks and that the stream of motorists seeking renewals is not letting up.

The influx of renewal requests is caused, the board chief said, because of the cut in valuation of B and C coupons from three gallons to two gallons a coupon.

The board clerk pointed out that most of the B and C books expired originally about January 1, but that because of the valuation slash many war workers, mail drivers and others who must operate their cars will be without gasoline unless their supplemental rations are renewed.
